13-0 Saints on a roll, pay visit to the GKBT

The New Orleans Saints are nearing the end of a record-breaking season. For those of you who have steered clear of NFL sports this fall, the Saints have gone undefeated for the first time in franchise history. A victory over our archrival, the Atlanta Falcons, clinched a 13-0 winning streak that has fans beaming brighter than Al Copeland's Christmas Lights in Lafreniere Park.

Our own Grace King Broadcast Team, an extension of

SPED, hosted Saints Team Ambassador, Michael Lewis, who also walked the halls of GK before his days in the NFL. The students were excited to ask him the questions they'd prepared as visiting students from T.H. Harris skyped in to join the interviews. Following a barrage of questions, Lewis graciously posed for pictures with all of his awaiting fans.

Mrs. Tizzard's Environmental Science Class Makes Flubber

Skylar St. Romain enjoys his Science Class activity.

Make Flubber at Home:

1. Pour 4 cups of water into a large glass jar.
2. Add 1/4 cup Borax and stir until it is dissolved.
3. In the 2nd jar, mix 1 cup water and 1 cup white craft glue. Tighten the lid and shake well until mixed. If you want colored flubber, add food coloring or paint to the water and glue mixture.

When the borax, glue and water mix, they form a putty-like substance. It will stretch, bounce, squish and drip.
